Assignment 1

Bad Interface: CLIP

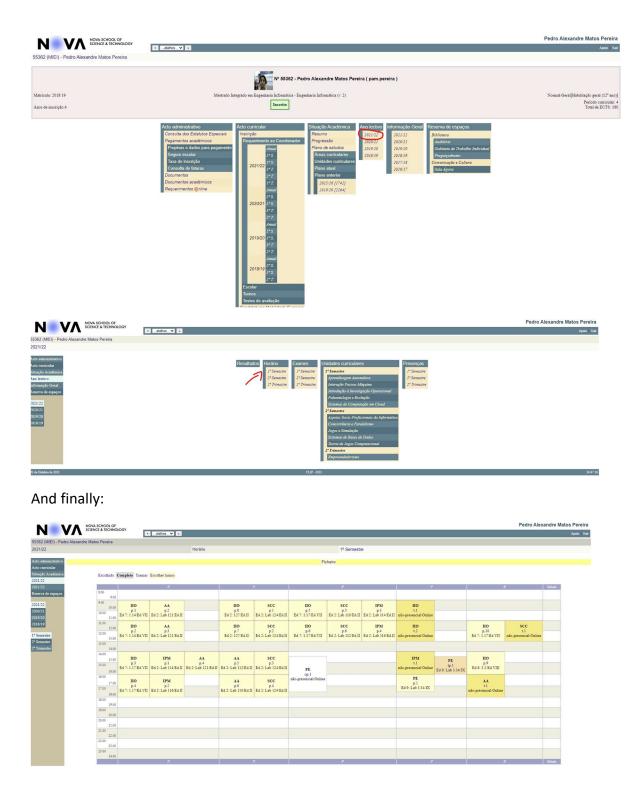

Clip is the university website where students can check/make their schedules and get several information about their classes and the courses in the university.

I think this is a bad interface because to a new user it is very confusing to get to where you want to go, for example, if you want to check your schedule you have to login, then click your student number, then click the current school year, and then finally you have a button to go to the schedule page.

Checking class schedule in clip:

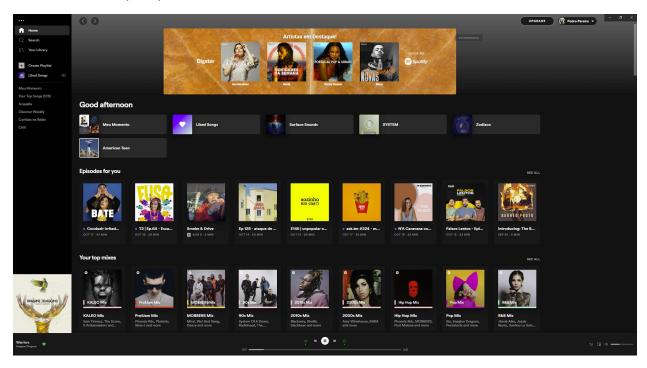

As you can see the website is not intuitive, even for some users that have been using it for some time.

I also think the website is not visually appealing, it is just a page with text, links and a few colors.

To improve CLIP I would suggest at least a page where there are some useful tips like FAQS or even teaching how to use the shortcut system. Maybe a more appealing appearance too.

Good Interface: Spotify

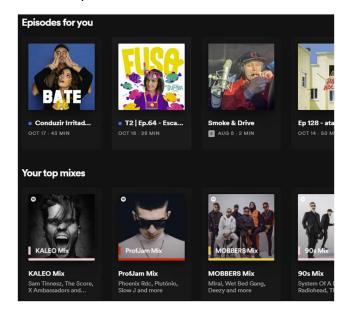

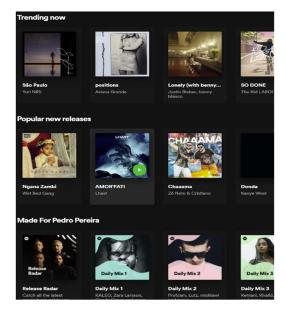

Spotify is an app where you can listen to music, tune in on podcasts, make playlists with your favorite music and then listen to them.

I think Spotify is a good interface because it is very intuitive, and user friendly. It has a lot of music for every taste and many artists, even unknown ones.

Spotify has variety, even if you don't want to listen to music you can listen to popular podcasts. And based on the music you listen to, and add to your playlists the app, recommends you several other tracks similar to the ones you like or from the same artists you usually listen too. The app besides recommending music and other artists, even makes some playlists unique to the user.

Podcast Episodes and recommendations based on what you listen to:

The interface is visually appealing, it is easy to search for music, the styles of music are divided, and it is easy to find new music to listen to.

There are some ads while listening to music, but if you want to get rid of the ads you can buy Spotify premium and get a lot of new features like: better music quality and even listen to music offline.